VOL. 44. No 42

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Harry Crouch and Mrs. C. J. Schuehle motored down to Bloomington Wednesday and returned Thursday, bringing back with them Otis Schuehle and wife (formerly Miss Mary Crouch) who are enjoying a week-end visit with homefolks. We were in error last week in stating that Otis is in the Bob Grandi Orchestra. He is now doing heavies on the Dude Arthur Show, one of the Pioneer Showmen of Texas. The company consists of 30 people, a 10-piece band and a seven-piece orchestra. The show features their vaudeville and have a 45 minute presentation. Among the actors are some well known vaudeville people. Miss Mary Isabelle Crouch, who recently joined the troupe in Alice, is to be a new member of the cast, doing Engenues. Although she has had very little experience she shows great talent and a promising future.

Hondo missed the cyclone of Tuesday afternoon by only a few puffs of wind. As it was the blow was too severe to be comfortable, but no serious damage was done. Neither was the hail heavy enough to do any damage, and the nice shower of rain that accompanied it was very welcome. The reports of death and destruction from other centers of the storm over the state cause one to pause and think how fortunate we are that a rift in the clouds spared us a possible similar experience.

Don't nurse false economy. We can't hide our face or feeling with clothes. It takes scientific care of your nerves and muscles to keep fit for the daily wear on body and mind to prevent more serious trouble and expense. Begin now and take rest-facials and scalp treatments at the Ladies' Beauty Shoppe. 41-tf.

Misses Louise, Adelle and Ethel Bendele of Black Creek and Misses Stella Bendele and Matilda Jungman of Rio Medina stopped over here Thursday on their return from a week's stay at Bullis, Texas, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Schmidt and daughter, Miss Dulcie.

George Isaac, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wilson, has been quite ill all week, suffering from an infection on his lower lip caused by a mosquito bite. Mrs. Wilson was called home from Marlin, where she had been taking the mineral baths, Tuesday to be aid in nursing him.

Let us do your hair trimming, tinting, shampooing, wave setting, marcelling, etc. Permanent hair waving and re-waving by Nestle method is not injurious to the hair. May be dressed in any desired style. Ladies' Beauty Shoppe. 41-tf.

Mrs. John A. Horger was taken to San Antonio the first of the week where she underwent a major operation at the Santa Rosa hospital. Reports from the hospital are that she is doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Fly and children and Miss Ruth Fly of Crystal City and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Barton and baby of Buda were last week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Fly.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wiemers and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Wiemers and family of San Antonio visited Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schweers and family at Georgetown Sunday.

John Henry Meyer returned to Dallas Sunday to resume his studies in Baylor Dental College after spending several days with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Meyer.

I am an agent for the McClain Monument Works of San Antonio. See me for Headstones and Monuments. H. J. Boehle, Dunlay, Texas.

Frank Jungman spent Thursday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Jungman, while returning to Houston from a business trip to El Paso.

Mrs. L. E. Heath returned Saturday from a week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. C. D. Eddleman, in San Antonio.

Oscar J. Bader, candidate for County Treasurer of Medina County, was a business caller at this office Tuesday.

We hope to have a more detailed sketch of his life for our next issue.

TEXAS AND TEXANS

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

By Will H. Mayes.

"All Texans for All Texas"

New England Shows Texas

The six New England States are operating a "New England Council," in a united effort to attract attention to that section of the country and to let the world know its numerous advantages in the industries, in commerce, in agriculture and in the pleasures that make New England life desirable. Instead of fighting each other, these six states with largely common interests are pulling together, and thus multiplying their strength. A common council or bureau is maintained, supported by all the six states, which sends out much publicity and tells where specific literature may be obtained describing more particularly any section about which more information may be desired. All New England is profiting by it.

Texas once had a statewide publicity organization that started out in a way to do much good, but that soon degenerated into a lobby to advance certain interests at the expense of the public, and lost its influence and support. A great need of this state today is a more co-ordinated effort of "All Texans for All Texas."

"Let's Talk Texas"

A high-powered New York columnist recently stated through a number of Texas papers, in an article for which he was handsomely paid by the papers, that "every one who comes to New York spend the first year wondering why he came to the city and the rest of his life wondering why he did not come earlier."

It's balderdash like this that draws so many of our ablest young men and women to the cities. Nine out of ten who go from the country and small towns to the cities and especially those who go to New York, wonder all their lives why they ever left home for the allurements of the city. Let one of the home-town folks succeed, even partially, and the papers are filled with glowing word-pictures of "Making Good in Gotham." Let a thousand fail utterly and nothing is heard of them. Why not say more about the Texans who succeed in Texas, instead of hunting out and lauding the few who get by in New York?

Texas papers can render a real Texas service by talking Texas and Texans.

Success Stories

Nothing else stimulates people to action like examples or stories of success. If you read about unusual success, your immediate reaction is, "if he could do that in that way, so can I." If people of a town see that another town of about a like class is doing something really worth while, they conclude, "if other towns can put that over, we should be ashamed of ourselves if we don't do better."

That is why this paper uses this column to keep its readers informed about what is going on in a constructive way all over Texas. Talking Texas helps build Texas, just as "Success builds success."

Eliminating Duplication

Austin College and Kidd-Key College at Sherman have agreed upon a plan that will eliminate duplication of courses in the two schools. Students of either college will be allowed to attend the other, one school featuring academic subjects and the other the fine arts, each having separate facilities. The instructing staff of both schools will be cut almost in half by this interchange.

The high cost of "higher education" in Texas is to a great extent due to duplication in the many state-supported schools. With quick and easy transportation to any of the schools, it is highly wasteful to be giving the same kind of instruction in half a dozen of them.

Frontier Celebration

San Angelo is planning to have its West Texas Exposition partake of the nature of a celebration of frontier days somewhat like the annual round-ups at Pendleton, Ore., and Las Vegas, New Mexico. There is enough of the traditions of pioneer ranch life in Texas to make one such celebration a year in Texas a success, and San Angelo is well located to capitalize the idea of such a distinctive entertainment.

Bonds for Roads

There must be a lonely pair of voters in Crockett county, of which Ozona is the county seat, for when an election was held to authorize the issuance of 375,000 in bonds for building 82 miles of highways, there were 251 votes cast for the bonds and two against them. West Texans have a way about them when they start to do worth-while things. The University of Texas owns one-third of the land in the county, which is not taxable.

Do We Live at Home?

It's an old story told again. While most Texans eat at home, they eat few home products. The editor of the Big Bend Sentinel made a survey of a "home dinner" recently and found the butter was from Trinidad, Colo., the peas from Brighton, Colo., the milk from Borden, N. Y., the tomatoes from Arkansas, the meat from Chicago, and the sugar, coffee, salt and everything else, except the water and bread, was shipped into Texas, and the bread may have been made from Northern flour. No, Texans do mighty little living at home.

Shipping Gas, Though

A gas pipe line is to be built from the Texas Panhandle through Oklahoma, Kansas and the Eastern part of Nebraska to serve intermediate points and numerous cities in Nebraska and Iowa. It will be prepared to serve 200,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day. Texas has enough gas and oil to furnish the entire country all it needs.

Wants Texas Represented

Representatives of the 1933 World's Fair at Chicago, plans for which have been under way for several years, and many of the buildings which have already been constructed, have been in Texas to get the state interested in having a building and creditable representation at the fair. It is to be hoped that Texas will show more interest than has yet been manifested in having a Texas Centennial Exposition in 1936.

Tomato Crop Increased

The freezes that killed all the tomatoes in the fields, and some in the cold frames, didn't phase the East Texans a bit, for they have put out more plants than before and a 20 per cent increase over last year is predicted. The peach crop will be short, but the price will be good. East Texas farmers are cutting down cotton acreage and planting yams, spuds, peas, watermelons and other garden crops. They are also intensely engaged in dairying and poultry growing.

Cotton Not Planted

Except in South Texas very little cotton has been planted in the state at this writing because of continued dry weather, and unless there are ample rains soon it will be too late to plant in some sections. This may force diversification of a kind that will result to the advantage of everybody. Texas has been going too much to cotton, especially has this been true of North Texas.

Smithville Starts Something

An enterprising citizen of Smithville has put in a 40,000 gallon tank for hatching and growing goldfish and expects to have 100,000 goldfish ready for market this spring. Department stores report the demand for goldfish is growing constantly.

Reading County Library Books

It is interesting to know that county libraries are growing in popularity in Texas. The McCulloch County Library circulated 5,134 volumes in February and March and the books reached every part of the county.

Builders of State Pride

Addressing the South Texas Press Association at San Antonio, Governor Moody recently said that Texas is building up a wonderful State pride and that it is due largely to the State enthusiasm created by the Texas newspapers. While the statement is correct as to most Texas people and Texas papers, there is a lamentable lack of "State-wide State pride" in many sections. There is too much of a disposition for every section and every town to pull for itself, leaving others to do the best they can. Texas has such a wide variety of interests that it is difficult to co-ordinate them for the common good of all. Some central co-ordinating agency is badly needed. Perhaps a Texas centennial exposition in 1936 would arouse a State pride that would result in the general co-operation so much needed for the good of the State. If so, such a celebration would be worth all it would cost in effort and in money, and the next 100 years would show many times the progress of the first century of Texas development, however brilliant that may have been.

Which Will It Serve

The Abilene Chamber of Commerce, the Waco Chamber of Commerce, the town of Cross Plains, the people along the proposed route, practically all the population of the "Heart of Texas" favor the building of the railroad from Abilene to Cross Plains. The Texas and Pacific railroad company opposes it on the sole ground of competition for business. Which will the Interstate Commerce Commission favor—the people or the Texas and Pacific Railroad? Is the commission most interested in developing the country or in protecting existing railroad interests?

What Makes Success?

The Granger News says there is no secret for town success, that it is the attitude of the group mind of the community whose people are unwilling to let things drift. To drift is to run down—drift never runs up stream. Effort is required to prevent drift, and enough effort is usually rewarded with success. One success motivates another effort, and a success habit can be formed. Towns grow and communities make progress because the people want growth and progress bad enough to work together for it. Success will not come from thinking and talking success. Thought and talk can start things, but they can't finish the job. Determination plus perspiration bring compensation to towns and individuals alike.

TEXAS BLUE BONNETS.

Geo. E. Pentecost in Devine News.

Texas Bluebonnets, pretty and gay.
Decking the hill sides, along the way;
Blown by the south winds, kissed by the dew,
Painting the landscape with spots of blue.

Never complaining your lowly lot.
Making rough hill-sides quite beautiful spots;
Theme of the painters' and poets' art,
Gaily you nod and play your small part.

Out of Earth's bosom you silently came,
Before the wintry winds had lain;
Scorched by the sun and the blighting gusts,
Soon again you must trail in the dust.

Born for a life, so transient in time,
Yet born of the Father, for a purpose Divine;
Although your days are numbered and few,
The world has been brighter because of you.

Help me, oh Father, my part to play.
Like the bluebonnets along my way;
If only it be to lighten the load
Of some fellow man along Life's road.

The writer of the above pretty bit of verse, now a Presbyterian preacher, is a Medina County boy, reared on a sandy-land farm near Devine. He is a graduate of the Devine High School and we remember him as active in his schools Interscholastic League activities a few years ago. This paper congratulates him.

A REAL BLOOD SUCKER.

The bed bug may be said to be the bane of all housewives, says a local official of the Gulf Refining Company. It is a thief in the night. It bites and pierces your skin and sucks your blood. Because the bed bug sucks blood from the sick and the well, it is a potential carrier of any communicable disease. The bed bug is not merely an annoyance, it is a very dangerous insect to have in your home. An infestation of bed bugs can be easily remedied by spraying one of the modern types of insect sprays, developed and marketed by the large oil refining companies during the past three or four years, and regularly advertised in this paper.

The mammoth-hatchery business has developed so rapidly that more and more farmers are buying day-old chicks instead of incubating the eggs. Day-old chicks should be bought from hatcheries where the breeding flocks are inspected carefully and culled rigidly, and where the poultry plants are kept in sanitary condition. It doesn't pay to buy poor-quality chicks.

CHEVROLETS IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

Renewed vigor in the Government's co-operative battle with the farmer against injurious crop insects was promised for this month with the delivery of a fleet of Chevrolet Sedan Deliveries to the Western division of the department of Agriculture.

This particular fleet is to be used in the campaign against the corn borer and is to concentrate its work in West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Similar fleets, enlisted in the war against the fruit fly, boll weevil, etc., are in operation in all parts of the United States.

Every car in the fleet recently delivered is a standard Chevrolet six, with sedan delivery body, in which equipment essential to a successful pursuit of the Government's war is transported. As the cars left the Flint plant of the Chevrolet Motor Company, they were paraded through the streets of that city with the national banner fluttering from either side of each car, as though mobilizing for the "war" in which they were soon to take part.

Selection of Chevrolets for this work was made by the Government because of their dependability and economy of operation in transferring activities from one "battle sector" to another, it was explained.

SPEED.

Two Houston automobile salesmen were arrested by highway patrolmen the other day for traveling over San Angelo roads at more than seventy miles per hour. The San Angelo Standard, editorially reporting the occurrence, ventured the suggestion that the offending drivers should be given the "limit."

The editor of the Beaumont Journal, while joining in the indictment of these careless drivers, nevertheless expressed the opinion that "highway speed laws are more or less ineffective" and cited the fact that ten states have removed entirely the speed limits applicable to state roads.

Editors are more or less agreed that "reason" rather than legally defined speed limits should be the controlling factor in highway travel, but even in

BLAST THE STUMPS.

Under some conditions, the best method of removing stumps is to blast them out with dynamite. Generally these conditions include situations where the stumps are few in number or widely scattered, where the work is to be done at odd intervals of spare time, or where the stumps are of considerable size so as to require breaking up before handling. In such cases, blasting is usually the cheapest method and it certainly saves time and labor. Modern explosives can be used with safety if a few simple directions are followed.
Circular No. 191-C, free upon request to the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., gives full directions for blasting stumps.

GRADUATES AT ALUMNAE PARTY.

A most delightful affair of the past week was the banquet given at the Menger hotel patio, last Tuesday evening, by the alumnae of Our Lady of the Lake college in honor of this year's graduates of the college. Centerpieces of pink and white larkspur
were effectively placed with candles to decorate the table. Place cards for the graduates consisted of artistic miniature figures of the girl graduate in cap and gown and graduation frock. After the banquet a short entertainment was given, with Miss Octavia Davis acting as toastmaster.
The president of the alumnae, Miss Della Donecker, spoke in welcome to the graduates, while Mrs. Doyle Cockrell gave interesting accounts of school reminiscences. Other numbers on the program included songs by Virginia Coen, Werna Lenert and Mary Catherine Kingsley, a piano solo by Mary Antoinette Rodesney, and the O. L. L. Cheer song, composed by Mary Antoinette Rodesney.

Guests of the evening included:
Henel Barker, Mildred Calloway,
Ruth Cooper, Lois Virginia Davidge,
Anne Davis, Octavia Davis, Henrietta Dielmann, Louise Dryden, Marian
Hamilton, Ida Ingenhuett, Laurene
Lighthouse, Sarah Thorsell, Clara
Van Ness, Josephine Wiesser, Catherine Wright, Virginia Coen, Mary Antoinette Rodesney, Mary Condren, Luella Lightfoot, Lalla Rhode Mason,
Evelyn McCulloch, Mrs. M. B. Smith,
Barbara Groce, Bertha Gomez, Mary
Catherine Kingsley, Marie Luftus, Bessie Roddie, Lillian Zepeda, Beatrice Zepeda, Katherine Malloy, Mary

othy Stephenson, Mary Agnes Austin,

WORLD'S LARGEST TIRE

Twelve feet high,
Four feet wide.
Tread, sidewall and bead
weigh 877 pounds.
Frictioned fabric weighs 289
pounds.
Tube weighs 125 pounds.
Wheel weighs 600 pounds.
Yoke weighs 2000 pounds.
Total weight of tire and yoke
is 3900 pounds.
Value of tire is $5,000.

Wednesday, May 14, the largest tire in the world will be on exhibition in Hondo, being brought to our city by Mr. A. E. Weynand, well-known Goodyear dealer, who will have the giant casing at his place of business at 12:00 o'clock.

The intensely interesting tire was built by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, and is on a tour of several states in this section of the country. It has been in many sections of the United States, and has been exhibited in Canada, causing no end of amazement at the Toronto Exposition last fall.

The rubber giant, which is 12 feet high and four feet wide, was built under the combined supervision of the chemical, tire design and research divisions of Goodyear's development department. It takes about three-quarters of an hour to inflate
the mammoth casing to a pressure of only three pounds. Its value is placed conservatively at $5,000.

It might be interesting to note that the value is the only item of standard size in the entire tire which is a replica of the Goodyear All-Weather Tread Supertwist Cord Tire, the measurements being in exact ratio to measurements of the regular size tire.

Goodyear is the largest rubber concern in the world. Early this year it finished the largest airship dock in the world—in fact the largest building without interior supports.

It is now constructing for the United States Navy two of the largest airships in the world, being nearly twice the size of the Graf Zeppelin and about three times the size of the Los Angeles. It was quite natural that Goodyear should build the largest tire in the world. It was necessary to construct around this huge casing a special vulcanizer to cure the rubber.
Otherwise the giant pneumatic was built under normal operations.

Will there ever be occasion for the use of a tire the size of the giant to be seen in our city Wednesday?
A prominent manufacturer of airplanes, when he saw the tire on exhibition in his city, stated that the day was coming when huge airplanes would require tires of just such dimensions.

Goodyear originally planned to construct the giant tire even larger,
but the engineers in charge of the work were restricted in their program
by the fact that some of the bridges over which this tire would pass on its tours of America, Canada, Mexico and Cuba have a clearance of only twelve feet.

The tire is mounted as a trailer to a bus of special design and has a load carrying capacity of approximately 50,000 pounds. Three months'
time was required in building it.

SENIOR BALL.

Members of the senior class of Our Lady of the Lake College were honored with a "senior" ball Saturday evening at the college.

The hall was decorated for the occasion with tall floor baskets filled with larkspur, gladioli and smilax.
Favors for the guests were miniature whisk brooms encased in leather, upon which were stamped O. L. L. in gold. In the receiving line were the following seniors: Miss Josephine Wiesser of Waco, president of the class, who also led the grand march,
with William Dielmann, Jr.; Misses Octavia and Anne Davis of Hondo;
Catherine Wright and Marion Hamilton of San Antonio; Helen Barker of Alpine; Sarah Thorsell of Alexandria, La.; and Mary Antoinette Rod-esney of Brenham.

The chaperones included Mrs. J. F.
Wiesser of Waco, Mr. and Mrs. William Dielmann, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dielmann, Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Light-house.—Sunday's Express.

SMITH DAM BREAKS.

A heavy rain near the headwaters of Hondo Creek Tuesday caused a five foot rise to pour into the lake at the Smith dam on the Hondo Creek near the old Henry Rothe ranch home.

As the lake was already about full of water, the spillway over the center of the dam could not carry the water off fast enough and the water poured over the east wing of the dam. A concrete slab about fifty feet long had been set in the earth bank on the east bank of the river. The water pouring over this slab soon washed all the earth away and about forty feet of this concrete wall crumpled in, almost completely emptying
the tank.

Mr. Smith's loss is very heavy and it is doubtful if he will rebuild the dam, as a considerable extension and strengthening of the wing would be necessary to make it hold.

The lake had only recently been stocked with game fish.

QUIHI NOTES.

"He that believeth on the Son (Christ) hath everlasting life, and he that believeth not on the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him." John 3: 36.

No Sunday school nor divine services will be held Sunday in Bethlehem Lutheran church of Quihi and St. John's Lutheran church of New Fountain, because of the absence of the pastor.

Since last Tuesday the First Lutheran Synod of Texas is in session in St. John's Lutheran church of San Antonio, holding its regular annual convention and business meetings. Rev. Hasskarl is attending this convention and the members of his Quihi and New Fountain parish are invited to attend the interesting services to be held Sunday forenoon, afternoon and night in St. John's church in San Antonio.

In the latter part of May Rev. Hasskarl will organize a confirmation class. All boys and girls desiring to be enrolled in this class should announce themselves to the pastor as soon as possible.

The interesting program to be rendered by the Quihi Luther League on the night of May 18 and announced in last week's Anvil Herald will be supplemented by an address which Mrs. Louis Oefinger has kindly consented to make on that occasion.

CARD OF THANKS.

We take this means of thanking one and all for the many expressions of sympathy and for the many acts of kindness during the last illness of our dear mother, Mrs. Joe Huesser, Sr. We assure you that your every act of kindness will be remembered in grateful appreciation.

Respectfully,

SECO COMMUNITY P. T. A.

Thursday evening, May 1, Seco Community P. T. A. held a regular monthly meeting at the school. All joined in singing "My Country."

The outgoing president, Mr. Henry Poerner, declared the meeting open for business and gave the installation of the newly elected officers in charge of Gus. Rothe.

After installation the delegates to the district conference of the Texas Congress of Mothers' and Parent-Teacher Associations, which was held in Uvalde April 7, 8 and 9, gave short reports of interest and value.

A large delegation attended the County Council in Hondo on April 25. Miss Josie Rothe gave a short, interesting report of the council.

Mr. Eric Rothe reported a balance of $61.00 in the treasury. Miss Josie Rothe suggested the purchasing of history charts, library books and play ground equipment. Action on this suggestion was deferred until next September.

A motion was made and carried that we change the name of our club to Seco Community Parent-Teacher Association.

A motion that the association keep a scrap book during the ensuing year also carried. President Mrs. Louis Pichot appointed a publicity committee of three members to center their work on the keeping of a scrap book.

Publicity Chairman, pro tem, GUS. ROTHE.

ZEN of the Y. D.

A Novel of the Foothills

By ROBERT STEAD

Author of "The Cow Puncher"—"The Homesteaders"—"Neighbors," etc.

It was very delightful to have the curtain lifted on this strong man's career. "Go on," she whispered. "I've been sorry for it since—not for what I did; I've never been sorry for that—but for what I said. You see, my life wasn't my own; it was his, who gave it to me; his, and my dear mother's. But young fellows don't think of that—not, at least, until it is too late. "Well, there was more talk, and the upshot was that I got out, accompanied by an assurance from my father that I never would be burdened with any of the family duties. Roy succeeded to the worries of wealth and I came to the ranges, where I have been able to make a living, and have, incidentally, been profoundly happy. I'll take a wager that today I look ten years younger than Roy, that I can lick him with one hand, that I have more real friends than he has, and that I'm getting more out of life than he is. I'm a man of whims. When they beckon I follow."

"At That I Flared Up."

Grant paused, feeling that his enthusiasm had carried him into rather fuller confidences than he had intended.

"I'm sorry I bored you with that harangue," he said contritely. "You couldn't possibly be interested in it."

"On the contrary, I am very much interested in it," she protested. "It seems so much finer for a man to make his own way, rather than be lifted up by some one else. I am sure you are already doing well in the West. Some day you will go back to your father with more money than he has."

Grant uttered an amused little laugh. "There's no sign of it yet," he said. "A ranch hand, even a foreman, doesn't need any adding machine to count his wages. Besides, I am getting other things that are more worth having."

"What other things?" "Why, this life—its freedom, its confidence. And health! When one's soul is a-tingle what does all the rest matter?"

"But you need money, too," she added, thoughtfully. "Money is power; it is a mark of success. It would open up a wider life for you. It would bring you into new circles. Some day you will want to marry and settle down, and money would enable you to meet the kind of women—"

She stopped, confused. She had plunged farther than she had intended.

"You're all wrong," he said amusedly. "It did not even occur to Zen that he was contradicting her. She had not been accustomed to being contradicted, but then, neither had she been accustomed to men like Dennison Grant, nor to conversations such as had developed. She was too interested to be annoyed."

"You're all wrong, Miss—?" "I don't wonder that you can't fill in my name," she said. "Nobody knows Dad except as Y.D. But I heard you call me Zen—"

"That was when you were coming out of your unconsciousness. I apologize for the liberty taken. I thought it might recall you—"

"Well, I'm still coming out," she interrupted. "I am beginning to feel that I have been unconscious for a very long time indeed."

Grant was aware of a pleasant glow excited by her frank interest. She was altogether a desirable girl.

"I have observed," he said, "that poor people worry over what they haven't got, and rich people worry over what they have. It is my disposition not to worry over anything. As for opening up a wider life, what wider life could there be than this which I—when you and I—are living?"

She wondered why he had said "you and I." Evidently he was wondering too, for he fell into reflection. She changed her position to ease the dull pain in her ankle, which his talk had almost driven from her mind. The rock had a perpendicular edge, so she let her feet hang over, resting the injured one upon the other. He was sitting in a similar position. The silence of the night had gathered about them, broken occasionally by the yapping of coyotes far down the valley. Segments of dull light fringed the horizon; the breeze was again blowing from the west, mild and balmy. Presently one of the segments of light grew and grew. It was as though it were rushing up the valley. They watched it, fascinated; then burst into laughter as the orb of the moon became recognizable. . . . There was something very companionable about watching the moon rise, as they did. Zen had a feeling of being very happy. True, a certain haunting spectre at times would break into her consciousness, but in the companionship of such a man as Grant she could easily beat it off. She studied the face in the moon, and invited her soul. She was living through a new experience—an experience she could not understand. In spite of the discomfort of her injuries, in spite of the events of the day, she was very, very happy. . . .

If only that horrid memory of Drakz would not keep tormenting her! She began to have some glimpse of what remorse must mean. She did not blame herself; she could not have done otherwise; and yet—it was horrible to think about, and it would not stay away. She felt a tremendous desire to tell Grant all about it. . . . She wondered how much he knew. He must have discovered that her clothing had been wet.

She shivered slightly. "You're cold," he said, as he placed his arm about her.

"I'm a little chilly," she admitted. "I had to swim my horse across the river today—he got into a deep spot—and I got wet." She congratulated herself that she had made a very clever explanation.

He put his coat about her shoulders and drew it tight. Then he sat beside her in silence. There were many things he could have said, but this seemed to be neither the time nor the place. Grant was not Transley. He had for this girl a delicate consideration which Transley's nature could never know. Grant was a thinker—Transley a doer. Grant knew that the charm which enveloped him in this girl's presence was the perfectly natural product of a set of conditions. He was worldly-wise enough to suspect that Zen also felt that charm. It was as natural as the bursting of a seed in moist soil; as natural as the unfolding of a rose in warm air. . . .

Presently he felt her head rest against his shoulder. He looked down upon her in awed delight. Her eyes had closed; her lips were smiling faintly; her figure had relaxed. He could feel her warm breath upon his face. He could have touched her lips with his.

Slowly the moon traced its long arc in the heavens.

CHAPTER VII

Just as the first flush of dawn mellowed the east Grant heard the pounding of horses' feet and the sound of voices borne across the valley. They rapidly approached; he could tell by the hard pounding of the hoofs that they were on a trail which he took to be the one he had followed before he met Zen. It passed possibly a hundred yards to the left. He must in some way make his presence known.

The girl had slept soundly, almost without stirring. Now he must wake her. He shook her gently, and called her name; her eyes opened; he could see them, strange and wondering, in the thin gray light. Then, with a sudden start, she was quite awake.

"I have been sleeping!" she exclaimed, reproachfully. "You let me sleep!"

"No use of two watching the moon," he returned, lightly.

"But you shouldn't have let me sleep," she reprimanded. "Besides, you had to stay awake. You have had no sleep at all!"

There was a sympathy in her voice very pleasant to the ear. But Grant could not continue so delightful an indulgence.

"I had to wake you," he exclaimed. "There are several people riding up the valley; undoubtedly a search party. I must attract their attention."

They listened, and could now hear the hoofbeats close at hand. Grant called; not a loud shout; it seemed little more than his speaking voice, but instantly there was silence, save for the echo of the sound rolling down the valley. Then a voice answered, and Grant gave a word or two of directions. In a minute or two several horsemen loomed up through the vague light.

"Here we are," said Zen, as she distinguished her father. "Gone lame on the off foot and held up for repairs."

Y.D. swung down from his saddle. "Are you all right, Zen?" he cried, as he advanced with outstretched arms. There was an eagerness and a relief in his voice which would have surprised many who knew Y.D. only as a shrewd cattleman.

Zen accepted and returned his embrace, with a word of assurance that she was really nothing the worse. Then she introduced her companion.

"This is Mr. Dennison Grant, foreman of the Landson ranch, Dad."

Grant extended his hand, but Y.D. hesitated. The truce occasioned by the fire did not by any means imply permanent peace. Far from it, with the valley in ruins—

Y.D. was stiffening, but his daughter averted what would in another moment have been an embarrassing situation with a quick remark.

"This is no time, even for explanations," she said, "except that Mr. Grant saved my life last evening at the risk of his own, and has lost a night's sleep for my pains."

"That was a man's work," said Y.D. It would not have been possible for his lips to have framed a greater compliment. "I'm obliged to you, Grant. You know how it is with us cattle-men; we run mostly to horn and hoofs, but I suppose we have some heart, too, if you can find it."

They shook hands with as much cordiality as the situation permitted, and then Zen introduced Transley and Linder, who were in the party. There were two or three others whom she did not know, but they all shook hands.

"What happened, Zen?" said Transley, with his usual directness. "Give us the whole story."

Then she told them what she knew, from the point where she had met Grant on the fire-encircled hill.

"Two lucky people—two lucky people," was all Transley's comment. Words could not have expressed the jealousy he felt. But Linder was not too shy to place his hand with a friendly pressure upon Grant's shoulder.

"Good work," he said, and with two words sealed a friendship.

Two of the unnamed members of the party volunteered their horses to Zen and Grant, and all hands started back to camp. Y.D. talked almost garrulously; not even himself had known how heavily the hand of Fate had lain on him through the night.

"The haymaking is all off, Darter," he said. "We will trek back to the Y.D. as soon as you see fit. The steers will have to take chances next winter."

TAX TRENDS.

Of all the politico-economic problems placed before the people for determination, that of taxation stands out by far the most important.

A great many politicians, some editors, and not a few voters have come to the conclusion that the constitutional provisions, which make mandatory the principle of "uniform and equal" taxation, have for some reason or other grown archaic and out of tempo with the spirit of modern times. They favor the levying of special and discriminatory taxes against so-called "special interests," defining these special interests, apparently, as any form of industry or commerce. The trend of thought, in this group, appears to lean toward the eventual elimination of the ad valorem tax.

Opposed to this idea are other politicians, voters and editors who hold what they term to be the constructive viewpoint. They are quite as desirous of reducing the tax burden as those of the first group, but they choose to avoid any measures which unjustly

A THOUGHT FOR SUNDAY
by
AMOS R. WELLS.

FATHER LOVE.
The most striking of recent news items comes from Oklahoma. It tells how a mother gave her baby poison
in the belief that it was medicine.
The young father could not get a doctor, and in order to learn what antidote to use, he himself took a dose of the same poison. When he felt the poison burning his stomach, he judged that soda water would counteract it, and took some himself with good results. So he gave soda water to the baby, and when the child could be taken to the hospital, it was found that he had done the right thing.
It would be hard to find a finer illustration, on our finite human scale, of the infinite work that Christ did for the saving of humanity from sin. He became sin for us. He bore
our griefs and carried our sorrows,
that He might put Himself in touch with our affliction.
That young father in Oklahoma was ready for any risk in order to save his child. Our Saviour counted no loss too heavy, no pain too great,
no shame and humiliation too severe,
if only He might redeem us from our woe and save us to Himself. "Like as a father pitieth his children, so Jehovah pitieth them that fear Him."
"Surely He hath borne our griefs,
and carried our sorrows."

CHICK CHIRPS.
Feed is a powerful weapon in the hands of a man who knows how to use it.
By the time you read this, some of your chicks will be hatched and the old hens will be wanting to take charge of things and run the poultry yard in their own way.
Have you got your brooders in order? Are you fixed so you are sure you can keep them free from vermin? How about your water vessels? Are they arranged so you can keep them clean and in a sanitary condition at all times? There is more trouble caused by filthy drinking fountains than any other thing in the poultry yard. How often we hear people say, "I give my chickens fresh water three or four times a day."
But look in the container. The bottom is covered with all kinds of filth,
the sides are all coated with green
scum.
The first two weeks of a chicks life
most always shows what you can expect of it when it has grown to maturity.
Keep some kind of growing mash
before the youngsters at all times and feed as much green stuff as they will clean up during the day. Feed whole grain only at night, just before they go on the roost. Pulletts of the lighter breeds should begin laying at

CLEANING UP AFTER DISEASE.
Many farmers and stockmen don't realize the importance of thoroughly disinfecting farm buildings after an outbreak of infectious disease, says
the Bureau of Animal Industry. Infectious-disease germs accumulate in the soil, in litter, on floors and walls, and in cracks and crevices. The best disinfectants for farm buildings are some of the coal-tar products, such as a saponified cresol solution. This preparation mixes readily with water and, used at the rate of at least 4 ounces to a gallon of water, is a very effective disinfectant. Another good disinfectant is cresol, known commercially as liquid carbolic acid.
Careless disinfection is little better than none at all. Use a sufficient quantity of disinfectant, and enough force in applying it, so all surfaces are covered and it is driven into cracks and crevices. The most effective method of application, particularly on large surfaces, is with a strong spray pump.
A Southern dairyman in a territory recently freed of cattle ticks was skeptical concerning the merits of a registered dairy bull and hesitated to buy one. Later he stated that the difference in the value of a few yearling calves of the first "crop" from the purebred bull that he finally bought, and the value of the same number of yearling scrub calves was greater than the entire cost of the bull.

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

By Will H. Mayes

Just Bing Happy

Although the Devine News editor has been publishing that paper for 32 years, he is willing to admit that he still has "lots to learn." That is why he is getting out such a good paper. He knows that he does not know it all. This writer recently met a chamber of commerce secretary who had just gone into newspaper work and who began at once to tell him how a newspaper should be edited. But Editor Dubose of the Devine News, knows what helps to make his people happy. Here it is:

"With strawberries almost at price of picking them; blackberries and dewberries now ripening; English peas, Irish potatoes now on the table; honey and cream at every farm home that has tried to have them, we ought to be a happy people." This writer recommends it to the places that are waiting about hard times.

San Saba Cave Sold

The wonder cave in San Saba county, about which much has been said lately, has been sold to Lon A. Piper of San Antonio, who will develop it at once. Piper owns a number of fine tourists quarters and resorts in the large cities of the West and Southwest—Grande Courts—and built the world's highest bridge that now spans the Royal Gorge in Colorado. He regards the new cave as a marvel and thinks that when it is explored and improved it will draw visitors by the thousands every year.

Oil Fields Everywhere!

Oil and gas everywhere! Just go down deep enough on almost any spot in Texas and the result will be a gusher of oil or gas and more probably both. A 20,000,000 gas well has just come in near Beeville. Young county has come to think of a 5,000 barrel well as rather small. Near Taylor big production is constantly coming in. The Seguin-Luling field furnishes constant surprises. Van is still booming. The problem near Uvalde has been to shut off burning wells. Oil and gas are piling up riches for many Texans and for out-of-State people who have the money and the courage to go down into the depths. Discoveries of less than 500 barrels a day no longer get extended press notices or attract oil field followers. To enumerate the paying oil and gas fields in Texas would be to catalogue most of the counties of the State.

Don't Get Excited

At present no one knows how many candidates there are for Governor of Texas. They are about as thick as the oil fields of the State. It is a poor county that can't have at least one candidate and some counties have several. The trouble about it all is that running for governor is threatening to cause a labor shortage in Texas, but it has the advantage of relieving any unemployment situation that may exist. The candidates are so thick that the people will not stop long enough to learn why they want the office. Most of them, though, do not know why. There must be some kind of an elimination soon to prevent highway traffic congestion, for the candidates for governor are crowding the tourists off the roads. But don't get excited about it. Make "business as usual" your motto for the summer and all will be well in Texas.

"Business First"

That is the slogan adopted by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. It used to be that politics was made first by most East Texans, but conditions have changed. By adhering to business East Texas is making such strides as are surprising to many of the citizenry. A strong effort is being made to pull the East Texas Chamber of Commerce into a dangerous sort of political contest unless the signs are all wrong. So long as such organizations stick to business and avoid politics they can accomplish great good. Another course soon proves disastrous.

Pullmans Versus Oxcart

Referring to a statement in this column that more than 12,500 prospective homeseekers visited South Texas the first three months of this year in Pullman cars, State Press in the Dallas News says it is doubtful if they were seeking homes, but probable that they were looking for investments, and intimated that homeseekers do not usually travel in such style. Yes, they do. The oxcart day in Texas settlement was all right for its day, but an oxcart homeseeker would not get many hearty welcomes now. If State Press thinks he would, let him hitch up his ox-wagon and trek to South Texas. He might be well received as a prospective crop harvester, but not as a homeseeker. Texas "realitors" would hardly give him a look unless they recognized his cane.

Guadalupe River Improvement

To canalize the Guadalupe River from its mouth to Victoria will cost approximately $2,000,000 and to Cuero an additional $4,500,000, according to estimates by an engineer. The maintenance of the proposed canal will cost $300,000 a year. Conferences on the proposed project are being held, commercial surveys are being compiled, and efforts will be made to secure the necessary assistance from the Federal Government.

Texas Trade Resources

Following a recent visit to Galveston, Houston and Dallas, Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, expressed his surprise, stating that he "had no conception theretofore of how impressive were the trade resources of the State." That is all right as far as it goes, and it is well that Dr. Klein became interested in the Texas fig industry, but he "ain't seen nothin' yet." Truth is, travel as he will, one can't see enough of Texas in less than a month to get much conception of its resources and possibilities, and Dr. Klein just sorter edged the State.

A THOUGHT ON DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT.

It should be the aim of a free and democratic government to allow individuals the right to advocate doctrines that they believe are beneficial to humanity.

When individuals or organizations urge measures which threaten damage to life, liberty or property the law should step in.

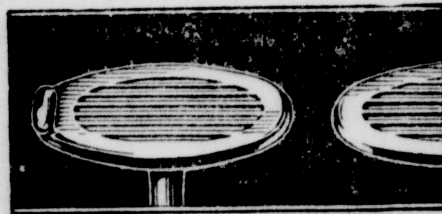

There can be no half-way measures with freedom of speech.

Anarchy and rebellion are the result of oppression, not of liberty.

Intellectual freedom should be prized and protected.

The United States was founded to provide its citizens with the very ultimate of freedom up to the point where life or property is menaced. Once that fundamental principle is changed, democracy will be dead.—Selected.

DALLAS NEWS HAS SOUTH'S STRONGEST STATION.

DALLAS, Texas, May 8.—On Saturday night, May 10, radio microphones in The Dallas News Station, WFAA, blaze the air for the first time, in an all night program, words and music, to the strength of 50,000 watts.

This event will make the formal opening of the South's first super-power broadcasting plant. It is one of the eight 50,000-watt transmitters in America and represents a capital investment of more than a quarter of a million dollars.

The voices of many prominent men and women will be heard in a ten-hour broadcasting ceremony. A special hour's program, complimentary to the new powered station, will be sent from New York City by the National Broadcasting Company's artists. The station's own staff, which composes a galaxy of well-known stars, will give the best in radio. Among the visitors scheduled to be in Dallas are Governor Moody, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, New York City, well-known radio speaker; Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, and Tom Kennedy, voice of R. K. O., New York City. Motion and sound pictures will be made during the celebration.

Radio listeners of America will find WFAA on 800 kilocycles, or near the center of every dial.

SOPHIAN CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Sophian Club will be held at the school auditorium next Wednesday afternoon, May 14. Mrs. O. B. Taylor will be hostess for the afternoon. A literary criticism of Edna Ferber will be given by Mrs. E. J. Leinweber and Mrs. C. J. Monkhouse will discuss local color of her book, "Show Boat."

A TICKLISH JOB.

Keeping tax rates at a proper and justifiable level is an exceedingly ticklish matter. If the rate is too high, prospective industries and home owners are driven away. On the other hand, if public improvements are not up to par, the community is considered backward and old-fashioned and the average family or industry does not care to locate in such a place.

It is only by co-operation of all citizens and business-like administration of public affairs, that tax rates may be kept within legitimate bounds without hindering progress.—Selected.
